

Reinout Wiers, short Bio March 2018.

Professor Reinout W. Wiers is professor of developmental psychopathology and distinguished faculty professor at the University of Amsterdam (UvA). He is senior editor of the journal Addiction, and on the editorial board of several other journals of addiction and clinical psychology. Wiers is internationally known for his work on implicit cognition and addiction. He received the prestigious VIDI (2002) and VICI (2008) research grants from the Dutch National Science Foundation (N.W.O.), for research on assessing and changing implicit cognitive processes in addiction. He also received several other grants from national and international funding agencies. His 2011 Psychological Science paper on changing the approach-bias for alcohol in alcohol-dependent patients with clinical effects is in the top 1% of most cited papers of that year in psychology and psychiatry. Wiers published over 250 international papers and book chapters, and his current Hirsch-index is 45 (web of science) or 65, google scholar, see: <https://scholar.google.nl/citations?user=2vKDTuoAAAAJ&hl=nl>